The Sudanese Organization for Research and Development (SORD)

SORD is a membership based, National Non-Governmental Organization dedicated to human rights and gender equality in Sudan. Legally, SORD is registered under HAC as Sudanese non – governmental, not for profit organization. Beside its registration at the national level, SORD is also registered at Khartoum, Kassala, Gadaref and Red Sea States.

The core business of SORD revolves around human rights, and gender equality and its main target groups are women and youth. SORD implements its programs using a right based approach.

Currently SORD has a country office based in Khartoum and two branch offices in Kassala and Gadaref states of eastern Sudan. Focusing on east Sudan region is attributed mainly to the fact that eastern Sudan region suffers from severe underdevelopment, discrimination along gender lines, inadequate basic services, deteriorating socio-economic conditions and population displacement. In addition, eastern Sudan has suffered from lack of attention from the international humanitarian and development communities as resources have flowed to other areas of Sudan.

Strategic positioning

Vision:
A vibrant gender focused and informed civil society in Sudan that is actively engaged in maintaining human rights, inclusion, peace and good governance in Sudan.
SORD believes that an enlightened CSOs with high commitment to human rights and plural democracy constitute the core of change agents provided that channels of communication, collaboration and cooperation are established between the different components of CSOs at all levels. Thus, SORD promotes collective thinking, active participation and the dismantling of all barriers of exclusion.

Mission:
SORD works together with civil society organizations and other relevant stakeholders so that men and women in Sudan are enabled to actively exercise their rights and responsibilities. We realize this by using participatory action research (PAR), informed advocacy, civic education, providing alternatives and capacity building or enhancement.

Goal:
By the end of 2020, SORD will be a significant contributor to citizen’s active participation and a sustained civil society engagement towards ensuring sustainable development, democracy and human rights where gender justice is in the core of the process.

SORD Governance Structure

A. The General Assembly
The general assembly comprises of all registered SORD membership, it is the supreme governing organ and the highest decision making body on policy and programs. The assembly is responsible for renewing the organization’s leadership and reviewing its strategic directions. Ordinarily, the Assembly meets every year in Khartoum or any agreed upon location.

B. The Board of directors:
A Board of Directors is elected from within the Assembly of Members. It is responsible for policy making and ensuring strategic and organizational directions set by the assembly. The Board currently consists of 12 Members. SORD executive director and SORD Strategic Advisor sit on and participate in the board meetings, but with no voting power.

C. The Executive body:
SORD executive body is a small core team of highly professional staff who provides the necessary technical expertise for the implementation of the planned activities in Khartoum, Kassala and Gadaref States.

Methodology

Participatory Action Research

Being a research based organization, research is central in all SORD’s interventions to inform the organization at both its practical and advocacy work. SORD mainly adopts Participatory Action Research (PAR) to create a positive social change through enhancing principles of participation, reflection, and empowerment. Research using PAR as its method takes place in four moments of action research, namely reflection, planning, action and observation.

Social Exclusion Analysis

SORD uses the model of social exclusion analysis as a main tool that helps the organization understands and analyses aspects of exclusion, discrimination and social injustice within societies and institutions in Sudan. The set of training exercises enable the participants challenge their own attitudes and practices, help them on how to free themselves from any (Isms) and how to improve their work towards social justice, peace and citizenship rights.
Since its establishment, SORD has organized a large number of workshops targeting women and men from different backgrounds and in different areas of the country. All these workshops have helped the organization identify main forms of exclusion including racism (Arabism), sexism, ethnocentrism, religion (Islam-ism), elitism as well as discrimination experienced by refugees and the displaced.

Working towards Ensuring gender Justice

Gender equality and equity are central to SORD’s being and doing; at policy, structures, practice and programming levels. SORD gender policy provides the guidance of SORD work and identity, the empowerment of women and girls is recognized as fundamental to SORD’s mission; every individual understands and demonstrates attitudes and behaviors that promote gender equality and equity; adequate resources are allocated to gender work; all work is continuously monitored against gender indicators; and the cross-cutting nature of gender concerns is recognized (gender equality is both everyone’s responsibility and an area that warrants specialized attention and resources. For SORD gender equality as an end is not realizable if gender justice is not ensured through political commitment and allocation of resources as well as existence of agency of change.

SORD Areas of expertise

Since its establishment in 2007, SORD, has established many projects and programs which fall under three interrelated themes namely:
- Gender Justice and Women rights
- Sustaining livelihoods for women and men
- Enhancing capacities of CSOs.
